Mr. Fink is a retired journalist and states Prescott will again attract them next season, as they were agreeably impressed with the climate, which has proved beneficial to Mr. Fink's health.

Memorable Occasion.

Judge J. M. W. Moore returned yesterday from San Francisco, where, as a delegate from the Grand Lodge of Arizona, he represented the Odd Fellows at the recent meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge. The occasion, he states, was the most memorable one in the history of the order, over 20,000 Odd Fellows being in the grand review last Wednesday, and five hours were required for the great assemblage to pass a given point. Judge Moore also speaks enthusiastically of the great exposition.

WILL RAISE APPLES

(From Sunday's Daily.)

C. C. Stuke, who was a visitor yesterday from Walker, has formally turned over his Shelton group to the Major Mining and Milling Company, with Major A. J. Doran in charge. Mr. Stuke retains but one mining claim on that fissure, the first north extension of the Pine Mountain, which is in a state of high production, via the apple growing route.

He expects to declare a dividend by January 1, and says the surface pay-streak looks attractive at the present time.

HENRIETTA CAMP SWINGS INTO ACTIVITY

BIG LEDGE PEOPLE ASSUME CHARGE AND BEGIN LARGE LINE OF DEVELOPMENT.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Arriving Sunday from the Henrietta camp on Big Bug creek, Lon D. Hall, a former operator of the property, stated the formal transfer occurred on Saturday to the Big Ledge Development Company, the new purchasers, and the old camp is again teeming with activity, with a force of 30 miners employed. Future development will be practically carried out on lines inaugurated by the former owners in continuing the lower or deep tunnel to reach great depth on the system of fissure veins that cut through the mountain, and on which exploration was being made when the deal was closed last week. Mr. Hall states there is but little question that the Henrietta will attain the productive stage in a short time. That the big Ledge intends to actively develop was evidenced yesterday by a contract with the Arizona Power Company for 300-horse power to operate machinery to be installed at once on the Henrietta and Butternut properties. The latter property, situated a mile distant, also is to begin operation at once. Several men are at work in repairing the old roadway to the camp, and mechanics will erect new buildings. J. P. Treglock has assumed charge of the Henrietta as superintendent, while James O'Brien, for many years a resident of that section, is the foreman.
